

ABSTRACT

The present invention relates to a memory and an information apparatus and more specifically realizes a memory having large capacity through a simplified process and an information apparatus utilizing the same memory by generating the data cell
5 region with a process that is different from the process used to generate the system region to control the data cells.